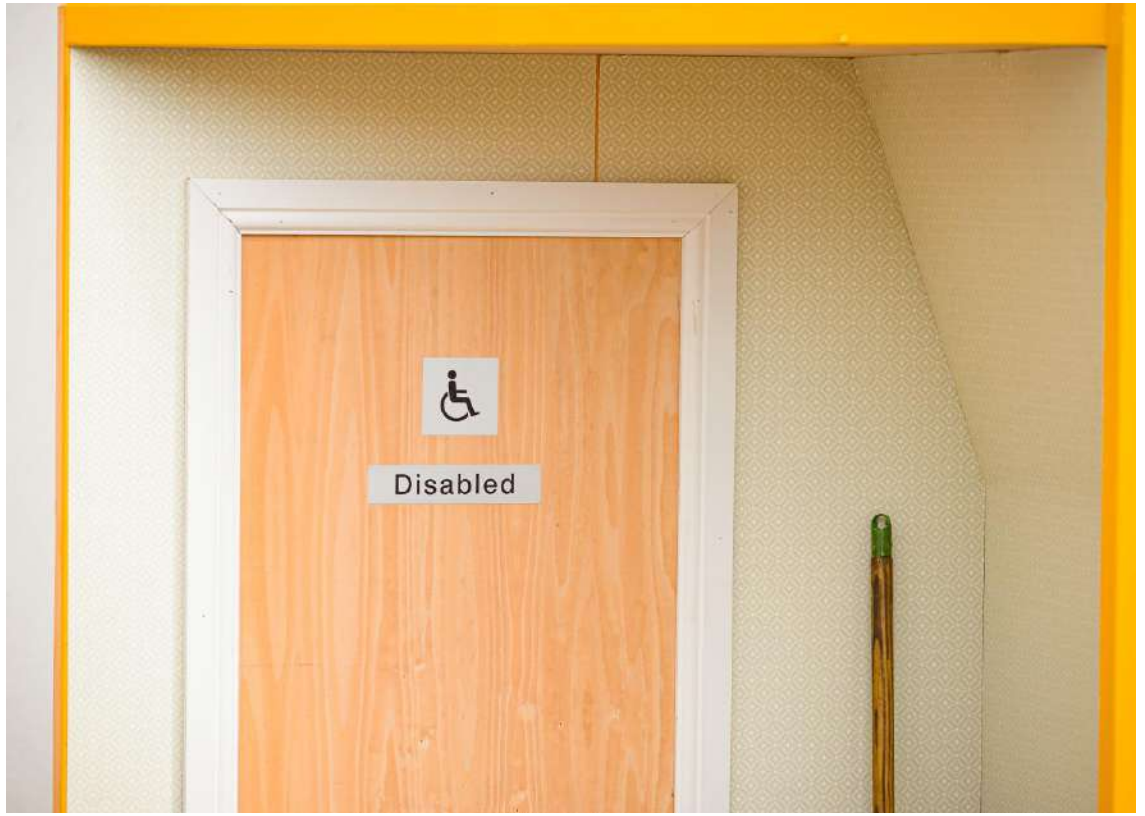
What Happened to You?

Visual Story

- The set is a large yellow clothing bank, that you put charity donations into.
- It has a narrow hatch in the top to drop the clothes in and a small square door in the front for someone to take them out.
- The sign on the front says this is for The Society for Really Needy Children.

- The clothing bank opens up and reveals another setting – a charity day centre.



- There are crates and boxes marked “donations” stacked in piles, brimming with old donations.

- There is a door, with a disabled toilet symbol on it.

- There is a chair that puppets use.

- There are splints – they are like braces that are worn on the feet and legs and are help in place with Velcro. They help the puppets to walk.

- There is an ironing board, used as a physio table.

- There are three puppets:

- Little Red
- Noodles
- Bo

- The puppets are operated by three puppeteers:

- Nikki
- Robyn
- Bryony

- This is Mia
- Mia tells the story in British Sign Language – she doesn't speak.

- Sometimes Nikki and Robyn play different characters:

- Busy Body

- Doctor

- Doctor Student

- Mum

- The story begins.
- The door opens and Little Red comes out.

- The clothing bank splits in two.

- Noodles appears on top of the clothing bank.

- Bo appears asleep in one of the crates.

- Little Red needs the toilet, but there is an obstacle course to the toilet door.

- Little Red completes the obstacle course, but the door is blocked by two crates.

- The Busy Body comes along, and is very unhelpful.

- She wraps Little Red in bandages.

- Little Red crawls away, completely wrapped in bandages.

- Bo has a physio appointment. The doctors test the muscle tension in Bo's hamstrings, and his knee-jerk reflexes.

- The Doctor tells Bo he will never lead a "normal" life, go down a slide or eat an ice cream.

- Noodles is with a Volunteer and Mum. Volunteer and Mum talk about Noodles over Noodles' head.

- Noodles is frustrated and upset by this and throws their shoe and splint.

- Noodles' splints come to life, operated by Puppeteer Nikki.

- Noodles is initially scared, but then is curious.

- Nikki brings her own splint, and puts it on as Noodles watches. Noodles then puts their own splint back on.

- Nikki hugs Noodles, and takes them off-stage.

- Little Red returns, and takes off her bandages.

- Bo helps Little Red move the box that is in front of the toilet door.

- Little Red can finally go to the toilet.

- Crates are stacked up high, with an ironing board leaning again them. They become a climbing frame and slide. Bo begins to climb.

- Bo goes down the slide, and glides through the air.

- The puppets celebrate overcoming their barriers:
- Bo went down a slide.
- Little Red went to the toilet.
- Noodles met someone who wears splints too.

- Little Red, Noodles and Bo return to the clothing bank.

- They decide to cross out “Really Needy” and the sign now says: “The Society for Children”.
